Fueling Discovery: Tax-Wise Giving to Advance Carnegie Science

Discover how Qualified Charitable Distributions (QCD), Gifts of Real Property, and Stock Gifts can transform your contributions into catalysts for groundbreaking discoveries.

Qualified Charitable Distributions

For donors of a certain age, Qualified Charitable Distributions (QCD) from your IRA present an opportunity to further the mission of Carnegie Science while reducing taxable income. By directing funds from your IRA to Carnegie Science, you can satisfy your Required Minimum Distribution (RMD) and experience the satisfaction of driving research progress—all while lowering your tax obligations.

Gifts of Real Property

You may have property, such as real estate or appreciated non-cash assets, that can become a significant investment in science and research. Through careful planning, you may be able to fund important work with assets that you may not have considered before. We would be happy to speak with you and help develop a plan that is suitable for you and your heirs.

Stock Gifts

Your appreciated stocks can become scientific breakthroughs. By donating stocks held for over a year, you bypass capital gains taxes and claim a charitable income tax deduction for their fair market value.
